

15 July 1970

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chairman, Economic Intelligence Committee

SUBJECT : Annual Report for 1970

1. During the past year the EIC Subcommittee for Shipbuilding continued its operations along the pattern established several years ago. The monthly meetings of the subcommittee continue to be the principal forum in the intelligence community on the Soviet and other communist navies. Support of the meetings continues at a high level with active and enthusiastic participation by all member agencies.

2. Members of the subcommittee participated [REDACTED] during June of this year. The conferences were notable because of the effort to achieve greater integration and to expand the economic aspects of shipbuilding and shipping. These efforts suggest that there are promising prospects for further research and insights.

3. The venture into a joint research project on a specific intelligence problem was successfully completed during the year. The problem, shipbuilding in the Leningrad area, was carried out by an Ad Hoc subcommittee supported by all member agencies. The results have been published and received broad dissemination.

4. The primary concern of the subcommittee will continue to be the USSR with its continuing and rapid expansion in the maritime field. Although plans for the future will continue to focus on this expansion, a specific area of concern will be the economic and military impact of the ship repair/modernization/conversion problem in the USSR over the next few years.
